FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Gonzalez, Florida

New Book, noise flash, a collection of poems about people, places, and things

Energion Publications announces the release of a new book, noise flash by Lee Baker. This is the first book of poetry for this author.

Lee Baker has been writing songs since middle school. As a member of several bands, he became the primary lyricist, writing a huge collection of songs that were never used. He did study poetry in college, but it was the sermon poets and metaphysical poets that struck his interest and have been an influence in his work.

Lee feels that while setting goals is important in the writing process, he has learned from a friend-writer that it is “allowing people to read your work and get honest feedback” that has been crucial. “You always grow exponentially more from your critics than from your fans.”

Lee’s inspiration for this collection was people that had an impact, places that have inspired, and things, actually concepts more than inanimate objects.

Lee Baker is a Louisiana native who has been an arts pastor for almost a decade and is an avid songwriter, poet, music producer, and art community patron. Lee received his undergraduate degree from Louisiana State University in Humanities and is currently completing a Masters Degree in Worship Theology. He is a life long New Orleans Saints and LSU football fan, loves to run, and explore the world whether that be his own backyard or western Europe. Lee currently lives in Florida with his wife and 2 young children.
